WORDS
in my HOUSE

There's more

I see words in my house
Everywhere that I look
They're in funny places, not just in a book
I see them and think "What's that word doing there?"
It's not on a page, it's free! In the air!

I see them at bath time.
They foam round my feet
On soap bars and bottles
Wash. Rinse. Repeat.

What words do
you see on yours?

I see them as mom signs for stuff that we buy
They scrawl in a line and they end with a sigh
One hundred and fifty six dollars, she writes.
"Pay to the order of..." appears in my sights.

What words do
you see on yours?

A large blue-bordered box with a light blue background. The bottom portion of the box is white and contains several horizontal lines for writing. On the right side of the white area, there is a small white box with a dollar sign ($) inside it.

Words come into my house on letters and mail
They land on the counter each day without fail.

On postcards and flyers and bills they arrive

More Postage. Return. Take this car for a drive!

What words do
you see on yours?

I see words on TV when we're watching the news.
They fill up the screen and they change when I choose
A new channel to watch all my favorite shows.
"There's more at 11." And so it goes.

What words do
you see on yours?

I see them when mom's finding something to cook.
They rise up from notecards tucked into her book.
They waft through the kitchen and smell oh so sweet.
Stir quickly. Roast slowly. I'm hungry - let's eat!

Honey Roasted Chicken

Ingredients:
Chicken

Directions:
Roast slowly.

New England Clam Chowder

Ingredients:
Clams
Cream
Butter

Directions:
Stir quickly.

What words do
you see on yours?

Words live in my house and they jump in my head.
They come back to visit when I'm in my bed.
Tucked in for the night with a story to read.
And I know that words are my friends, yes indeed.
